

Dark Light

Irreprehensible, the Dark Light calls fear alive for the contest has started Your shield will be tested
Can you withstand the vicious trick appearing as shame

Disbelief has not inspired me to block no..... no I can't believe the ruse

Why give it the time as your woman power is the most precious of all commodities your sensibilities will be shattered Can you face the consequences of a malicious rumor and those seeded projections wagging your world manifest

People lining up behind the man he appears stainless, almost holy in public Your character will be questioned Can you defend yourself from unmet strangers and friends who haven't seen the half of it but have been given a good ear whooping

Conjured by your fright and his incantations monsters meant to deter your stance martial the most primal of your capabilities dispel the illusion looking for foothold

Turn to face your near-field opponents reflected squarely in that which divides make them the servant of your fortitude and render them unreal

Repeated onslaught has inspired me to awaken yes..... yes I can see that more is coming up on the horizon

This, something you were meant to conquer thrown into a pit of crocodiles Your steadiness will be honed Can you rise up to kick out all dubiety in dangerous circumstances that call you front and center

Your arms stand in defiance, your voice sounds the alarm
Your armor is here steeled
Will you sustain this truth and transparency.....
Closing all doors where the false has entered I disappear like a wisp at this story's end

From under the kings chamber, present, we meet the shadows head on and all that has previously evaded me is cast into the "DARK LIGHT."

Here and now..... enveloping completely, in unseen shades of luminosity no longer avoiding the fray off axis I find that I'm suddenly center balancing between the Queen's poles

(c) copyright, All rights reserved October, 2017
Mari Fix